

Shane Claiborne: Sharing the "Gospel" of Rutba

conversation + film & music for a multi-faith audience

Shane Claiborne

Greg Barrett

Join Shane Claiborne of The Simple Way and author Greg Barrett as they share their first person experiences of the early days of the Iraqi invasion through film, conversation and song and challenge us to rethink what is possible.

Monday, March 18, 2013 8:00 to 9:30 PM

(The eve of the 10th Anniversary of the U.S. Invasion of Iraq on March 19, 2003)

Park Avenue Christian Church
1010 Park Avenue (at 85th St), Manhattan
(2 blocks from the 86th St 4/5/6)

This event is free and open to the public.

Sharing the gospel of Rutba

In March 2003, Shane, Rev. Weldon Nisly, and Cliff Kindy weathered the first days of the "shock and awe" campaign in Baghdad only to be nearly killed in a car accident as they were leaving the country. Amazingly, they were rescued by Iraqi Muslims who took them to a medical clinic in the already bombed-out town of Rutba, where they received an extraordinary level of protection and care. In return, their hosts had only one request: Go and tell the world of Rutba!

Joining them will be:

Jeremy Courtney
Preemptive Love Coalition

Sami Rasouli
American founder of the Iraqi Peace Teams movement

John Francis
Singer-songwriter